PRACTICAL INFORMATION:

Material :

ball diameter: 90 to 110mm

weight: 0.7 to 1.3kg

Teams

Teams will be composed of three players, each one will have 2 balls

Duration :

The games are played in 13 points

Rules :

Please respect the Bocci lyonnaise rules

The game takes place on a delimited field. It must be 27.50 m long and 2.5 to 4 m wide. It is divided into three main zones: in the middle, a 12.50 m long free area and at each end two other spaces, each measuring 7.50 m long.

These two zones (one for play, the other where the player can throw the ball) are equally divided: inside the frame, a line located 0.50 m from the edge delimits a neutral part in which the balls and the jack are considered lost.

A second line, located 2 m from the first, is called the goal line and indicates the maximum distance at which the jack can be launched.

The third line, or footline, drawn 5 m from the previous one (7.50 m from the edge of the frame) limits the area in which the player can play to throw his ball.

When the jack is thrown, it must stop between the goal line and the foot line, that is to say, it is always at least 12.50 m from the player .

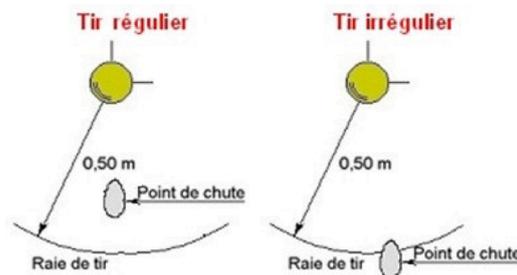

When a player wants to shoot, he must announce which ball in advance.

His opponents then draw a circular arc of 50 cm radius and 15 to 20 cm long in front of the announced object. They also draw a 50 cm in front of all objects without distinction of camp located within the 50 cm radius and behind the announced object.

A shot is regular when:

- the ball was not whistled by the referee (for footfoul, bad placement of partners...);
- the drop point is not more than 0.50 m from the announced object;
- it is not more than 0.50 m from the object hit first;
- the object hit first is not more than 0.50 m from the announced object.

Otherwise the ball is cancelled, as well as its effects: as the location of the other balls has been marked, those that have been illegally moved are put back in their place, unless the opponent finds his advantage there.

Accompanying persons are allowed

Medals award ceremony directly on site at the end of the event.
